Invictus FC announced today the signing of forward Sean Maruscsak for the upcoming 2021 UPSL season.

Maruscsak, who grew up in Ballston Spa, New York, graduated from SUNY Plattsburgh, after a college career that was filled with outstanding accomplishments.

In 2015, Maruscsak was the Mountain Valley Conference Player of the Year, as Captain of SUNY Adirondack. That same season saw him lead his team to a historic first Conference Championship along with being ranked 4th in the Nation. Additionally, Maruscsak was also named SUNY Men's Athlete of the Year, and he was selected for the Regional All-Star team after leading the conference in both goals and points.

Technical Director, Paul Mairs, has worked with Maruscsak at the college level, and he articulated what Maruscsak was bringing to the club:

“Sean has been a leader throughout his entire soccer career, and his history of accomplishments in the game demonstrate exactly why we were eager to bring him to the club. His attitude is absolutely first class, and his physical attributes such as his strength and speed are going to be dangerous at many levels of the game. We are thrilled to have him on the team.”

Maruscsak, who has spent the majority of his life in the Capital Region, is enthusiastic about playing in Central New York and representing Invictus FC in the UPSL:

“Growing up in the Albany area, I was always surrounded by soccer, and it has always been my main ambition to play and coach the sport after graduating from college. I love working in the game and helping young players develop through the ranks. So to be able to come and represent Invictus FC in Central New York, a club who is proving so many young players throughout the area with a great opportunity to unlock their potential, is an incredible opportunity for me. I am hungry to do well and show my true ability on the field.”
